Giovanna Price Pottery Exhibition details

Much of my work is influenced by the dramatic landscapes and diversity of natural forms found in my native Sicily. Some of my most recent work has reflected the deep colours of the Ionian Sea off Sicily and the snowy slopes of Mount Etna. The latter provided the inspiration for a set of fourteen unique vases commissioned as table settings for a wedding reception. I've also drawn on the Warwickshire countryside and influences as diverse as the art and landscape of Ancient Egypt and the timeless vistas of the great American national parks, the flora of the Amazon jungle and the awe-inspiring heights of Machu Picchu to produce the subtle curves, patterns and textures that are emblematic of my work.

Examples of my work in various stages of production are available in my garden studio.
